

CHAKU CHURCH BUILDING

World Help is excited to share an opportunity with you in Chaku, Nepal . . . a village very special to us. In 1996, we planted the very first church in Chaku through of our Vision 1,000 project—an initiative that would eventually lead to the establishment of 1,000 churches throughout Nepal, India, and Myanmar.

The church plant in Chaku began with 17 believers, and as the impact of the Gospel spread throughout the village and surrounding areas, the congregation grew steadily. Today, there are 300 believers who regularly attend the church! This growth is an incredible testimony to the church's faithful ministry, as it is high in the mountains and travelers must be intentional to reach it.

The church has established a local presence of hope and healing. Over the years, its ministry has led countless people to Christ and trained future leaders to carry the Gospel throughout Nepal.

Not surprising, the believers in Chaku have outgrown their present church building. In hopes of alleviating the crowded conditions, they moved their weekly services to the “kitchen,” the community’s feeding center, which is only slightly larger than the church.

But because they have such a small building, the congregation sits on their knees on the floor—with barely enough room to move. Our partner shared that once every month, when the Chaku church joins with another community for communion, many people are forced to remain outside because there is no room for them. And yet, the ministry continues to grow.

Several months ago, they began construction on a new church building but were unable to move beyond the developmental stages as funds were depleted. However, they firmly believe that God will provide a place where all can gather to worship.

Together, we can help finish the construction of the Chaku church building.

The lower-level rooms will serve as Sunday School classes, offices, and potential guest rooms for traveling church planters and other ministry workers. The main level will be the sanctuary and will comfortably hold up to 350 people.

This building will not only provide weekly services for the believers of Chaku, but will also allow the people to branch out into different ministry opportunities by investing further in their thriving children's ministry, church planting, leadership training, and more.

The total price of completing a church for the people of Chaku is $30,000 and is all inclusive.

It will cover the fees for construction, materials, equipment, finishing work, outfitting, and administration expenses.

By giving to help build the church in this rural village, you are investing in the eternal hope of families, communities, and entire generations.

World Help is passionate about taking the Gospel to the remote regions of Nepal. With a population of more than 80 percent Hindu, it is imperative that the light of the Gospel be shared with this nation in desperate spiritual need.

Thank you for investing in something that will outlive you and last for eternity.
